Welcome to my kitchen. I'm going to take you on a mini tour of my small but cute kitchen to learn the key kitchen vocabulary.

This is my fridge, short for refrigerator and it keeps all of my food cold. You can see I've got lots of fridge magnets from all the cities I've visited. And down here we've got the freezer which keeps my food frozen. When you have a fridge and a freezer in the same device, it's called a fridge-freezer.

This is the sink and in the sink I wash the dishes. I don't have a dishwasher, so I use a sponge and washing-up liquid to wash the dishes.

And down here we have the cooker. The top part is the hob, so I cook on the hob and the bottom part is the oven. I open the door, put the food inside and it heats up. The hob and the oven together are called the cooker.

This is the toaster which I don't really use that often but you put bread inside, heat up to make toast.

Down here, we have the microwave which also heats food up very quickly and finally we have the kettle. This is the most important thing in the kitchen because I boil water to make a cup of tea.
