

Family Common Mistakes

Let's review the top mistakes that English learners make when talking about family.

I live with my fathers

In many languages, you use the male form to talk about plurals. In English, we have special words.

I live with my fathers

We don't say my fathers, we say my parents.

I live with my fathers

We don't say my sons, we say my children.

I live with my fathers

We don't say my grandfathers, we say my grandparents.

I live with my fathers

We don't say my brothers, we say my siblings OR my brothers and sisters.

I live with my fathers

I live with my parents

I have two granddaughters

This is a difficult word to spell, but there are two Ds in the word.

I have two granddaughters

I have two granddaughters

COUSIN

We don't have a masculine and feminine form for cousin. It is the same!
