

What Is An Adverb?

What Is An Adverb?

An adverb is a word that typically modifies a verb, adjective or another adverb. It provides more information in a sentence and answers a specific question.

What Is An Adverb?

There are many types of adverbs in English;

-  Adverbs of frequency
-  Adverbs of degree
-  Adverbs of manner
-  Adverbs of time
-  Adverbs of place

What Is An Adverb?

Adverbs of frequency

These adverbs answer the question “how often?”.

They are usually positioned before the main verb, with a few exceptions.

Examples: always, sometimes, never, often

What Is An Adverb?

Adverbs of manner

These adverbs answer the question “how?”.

They are positioned after an intransitive verb or after the object with a transitive verb.

E.g. loudly, quietly, softly, annoyingly

What Is An Adverb?

Adverbs of degree

These adverbs answer the question “to what extent?”.

They are usually positioned before the adjective they’re modifying with a few exceptions.

Examples: so, too, enough, very, extremely.

What Is An Adverb?

In this course, we're going to look at adverbs of time and place. We'll learn the key example words, where they're positioned and they can be used to increase your English level.