

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

My brother recently set me up with somebody on a blind date. He said she was a lovely person with a great personality but on this first date she stood me up. I decided to give her a second chance so we met up again for a meal. I flirted with her a little and chatted her up and we made out. We went on several dates thereafter, I was really falling for her. I finally asked her to officially go out with me and a few months later we moved in together. We start to fall apart and go our separate ways and sadly we split up. We had been living together, it made it much harder when we broke up.

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to set up with transitive - separable

To match two people together for a date

My brother set me up with his best friend.

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to stand up

transitive - separable

To not turn up to an arranged meeting

I can't believe you stood me up!

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to meet up

intransitive

To physically meet and see somebody

Shall we meet up at 4pm?

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to flirt with

transitive - inseparable

To show interest in somebody and flatter them

I love it when he flirts with me.

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to chat up

transitive - inseparable

To converse with somebody while flirting

It's so hard to chat somebody up.

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to make out

intransitive

To kiss

We made out on the date.

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to fall for

transitive - inseparable

To have strong feelings and fall in love with

I'm really falling for her.

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to go out with

transitive - inseparable

To date

I'm going out with Sam.

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to move in

intransitive

To move to a new house and live with somebody

We moved in together last year.

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to fall apart

intransitive

To lose interest in something and start failing

Our relationship started falling apart

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to split up

intransitive

To end a relationship

They keep splitting up!

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to live together

intransitive

To live in the same place

My husband and I live together.

Phrasal Verbs for Relationships

to break up

intransitive

To end a relationship

I can't believe they broke up.